Smiles to go

Despite all kinds of rumours swirling around, Deepika has her chin up

Deepika Padukone, who was in the news for an alleged health scare, made a surprise appearance at the Mumbai airport on Friday.

Rocking shades of black, blue and white, the star made sure to smile for the cameras before heading into the airport. This was Deepika's first appearance since reports claimed that she was rushed to the hospital after complaining of uneasiness.

After running a couple of tests and taking the needed rest, the actress was reportedly feeling better. This was the second time that news of her health scare made headlines. However, no official statement was released from Deepika or her team.

Reports have also claimed that Padukone and her actor husband Ranveer Singh have hit a rough patch in their marriage. These unconfirmed reports went viral shortly after Ranveer announced that and his wife shelled out Rs 119 crore to purchase their dream home.

However, Ranveer seemed to have crushed the allegations as he heaped praise on his wife and even rooted for a new film with her.

On the work front, Deepika will be next seen in the Shah Rukh Khan-starrer 'Pathaan' along with John Abraham. She also has 'Project K' with Prabhas and 'Fighter' with Hrithik Roshan.

Spectacular show

KANTARA
4.5 RATING ★★★★½
- DIRECTOR Rishab Shetty
- ACTORS Rishab Shetty, Sapthami Gowda, Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, Pramod Shetty, Prakash Thuminad
- CERTIFICATION U/A
- Duration 150 minutes

The movie begins with a king embarking on a tour to find peace and contentment. The king happens to meet a priest at a tribal settlement. He feels at peace standing near a place where a demigod is worshipped. He gives away land to the deity of the tribal people. In the next scene, the director introduces us to Shiva (Rishab Shetty) participating in Kambala, an annual buffalo race. Petty politics and greed manipulate the outcome of Kambala competition thus leading to fisticuffs among the participants. Devendra (Achyuth Kumar), the village leader, announces Shiva as the winner.

Meanwhile, a forest officer (Kishore) enters the scene with a mission to recover the encroached forest land. Shiva and his friends object to this plan. What happens to this confrontation is the gist of the movie.

It may not be an exaggeration to say Rishab Shetty is at his best in this film. He has handled the double role – direction and playing the lead – with aplomb. His performance, as a trusted friend, loyalist to the village head, as an affectionate son, lover and the leader, is superb. His performance in the 20-minute climax is the highlight of this movie which will leave the audiences spellbound. Kishore, as a forest officer, steals the show with his sterling performance. His gait and dialogue delivery deserve praise.

Sapthami Gowda has acted well, especially in romantic and emotional scenes. Prakash Thumminad's tryst with his lover and mud marks on his knees will tickle the audiences' funny bones. Pramod Shetty, as a cunning contractor who troubles the hero and his friends and later realises his mistake, has provided good support.

Music director B Ajaneesh Lokanath has done a great job, especially with the background score in the climax. Cinematographer Aravind S Kashyap must also be lauded.

The roar of the deity in the climax scene will continue to haunt you even when you go home after watching this movie.

All in all, this movie is worth a watch for all kinds of audiences, especially those who want to know the rich culture and traditions that have been followed by people of coastal districts of Karnataka.

Kabir Bedi in Hunter

SANDALWOOD SHOTS
Y MAHESWARA REDDY

Kabir Bedi fans can rejoice as the actor will soon be sharing screen space with Niranjan Sudheendra in the movie Hunter. The movie's tagline is On Duty.

Thrivikrama Sapalya, who has bankrolled the movie told Bangalore Mirror that he had earlier approached Bollywood actor Nana Patekar to play the Chief Minister's role, but it didn't pan out. "Nana Patekar was too busy with a web series. Later, we approached Kabir Bedi who was in the US. He asked us to send him the script and gave a green signal after going through it," says Sapalya. Sapalya was all praise for Bedi's cooperation during the shoot. "I tried my best to arrange an interaction with Kabir Bedi for media persons on September 24 but the shooting was delayed on that day. Bedi sir was happy and comfortable on the sets. He was gregarious and had no ego," said Sapalya.

Hunter is Sapalya's third movie as a producer. His earlier movies are Pari and Seizer. "In Seizer, Kishore Sarja played the lead role. I am happy with its success at the box office but the same cannot be said about my other movie Parie," he said.

Prakash Raj, Suman, Nassar, and Soumya Menon play important characters in Hunter, which is directed by Vinay Krishna.

Shruti part of DC's Sandman: Act III

Actress-singer Shruti Haasan has added another feather to her cap as she has now lent her voice to the international audio drama 'Sandman: Act III'.

This comes just days after Shruti released her English single 'She is a Hero' which was loved by audiences and critics alike for its strong message and music. The third instalment of the New York Times best-selling, multi part original audio drama series has been released exclusively on Audible by DC. Shruti plays the character of a landlady at the World's End Inn in the series.

This is Shruti's third international project after 'Treadstone' and 'Frozen 2'.

Commenting on the same, Shruti said: "It feels great to be a small part of such an iconic series written by Neil Giaman. 'Sandman : Act III', the makers have taken the series to another level. I have been a huge Neil Giaman fan since I was a teenager and being a part of a sandman audio franchise with such stellar cast is a dream come true for me." —IANS

It's action time

Parineeti, who will be seen playing the role of agent Durga in the film, took to Instagram, where she shared a video in which she is seen practicing how to move while holding a gun.

"When you're gun training but wanna use your skills on the action director himself, because he doesn't let you REST! Countless bruises and heat massages later, Agent Durga (aka stronger me) is ready for action film no. 2. Bring it on! #ActionHeroineInTraining #CodeNameTiranga #Stunts," Parineeti captioned the image.

Parineeti also shared that she had to learn Israeli martial art Krav Maga for three months to perfect her role as an elite agent in the film 'Code Name Tiranga'.

Developed for the Israel Defence Forces, Krav Maga is derived from a combination of techniques used in aikido, judo, karate, and boxing and wrestling.

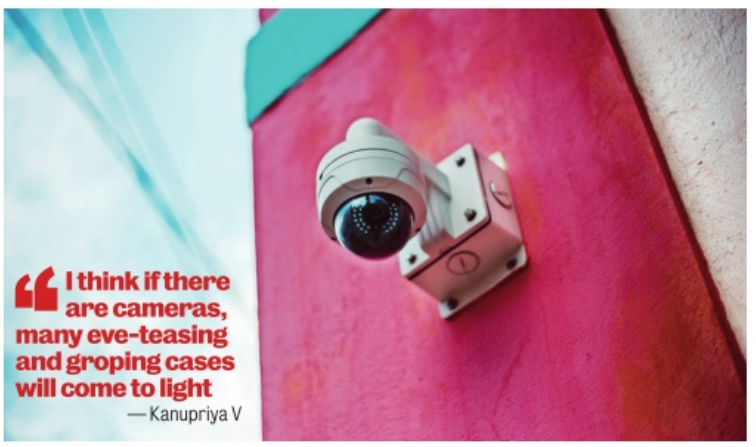
A year ago, Bengaluru received Rs 496.5 crore for installing CCTV cameras in the city limits under the Safe City project. But the cameras are not installed yet.

The cameras were to help in ensuring safety in public spaces — a critical step towards ensuring women's safety, checking crime as well as better traffic management.

The city currently has around 1,100 such cameras; another 7,500 were to be added as part of the Safe City project.



The project is financed by the Centre's Nirbhaya Fund; the main focus was to detect and prevent crimes against women. The Centre approved Safe City projects for Bengaluru and seven other metros in 2018.

Women's safety became a primary concern after the recent data released by National Crime Records Bureau; it showed Bengaluru was one of the cities in India with maximum number

Mentally safer world for the underprivileged

Teenager Manya Ganpathy has started an initiative to empower those from low-income communities and give them a shot at a happier life

Garima Prasher
c-garima.prasher@timesgroup.com
TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

It has been less than a year since Manya Ganpathy (inset), a 16-year-old student of Mallya Aditi International School in Bengaluru, lost her brother to suicide.

Determined to memorialise him in something positive and long-lasting, Manya then started an initiative to help uplift low-income communities in Bengaluru by cultivating knowledge, skills, and a healthy lifestyle.

The high schooler explained that she wanted to keep her brother's memory alive by doing things her brother liked to do.

"We began with distributing eco-friendly food packets to people in need. However, I soon became aware of the underprivileged and often dangerous living situations they were exposed to. This was when we started Anugraha. My brother was into helping the homeless and stray dogs randomly. I wanted to remember him by doing things that he liked to do," said Manya.

According to Manya, Anugraha is focused on holistic empowerment of economically weaker sections of the society across areas such as health and hygiene, education, nutrition, skill development, gender equality, and sanitation among others. The NGO is run by a team of 30 high school students passionate about empowering communities in need.

She recently curated a sustainable fashion show featuring recycled and upcycled clothes. The clothes were auctioned to raise funds and help support her mission.

"The event was also organised to spread awareness about suicide. Most of our audience at the event was high school students. I lost my brother to suicide, and I am trying to seek the light by helping others in need," said Manya.

Currently, Manya and her team are working on the upliftment of a slum community located near MSR Nagar.

"We have identified key issues such as lack of toilets, and shortage of food and clothes and organised those issues under the 17 goals of the UN. We have already raised around Rs 1.5 lakh to support this cause," added Manya.

Anugraha is also involved in increasing awareness about menstrual hygiene. Manya and her team are determined to ensure that young girls complete their schooling. The team is also working towards improving financial literacy and vocational training in these communities.

No, service charge is not mandatory folks!

Many patrons are still unaware of guidelines issued; eateries say they remove these charges when asked

It's been a few months since the Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA) issued guidelines prohibiting restaurants from automatically adding a service charge to the bill. But nearly three months on -- the guidelines were issued on July 4 -- many patrons remain unaware of the change and eateries continue to levy these charges.

The guidelines were issued after the Consumer Affairs' Department said it had received complaints from consumers that they were often levied service charges at an extremely high rate.

Kaustubh Meher, a resident of Rajajinagar, said, "I was not aware about the rules that paying service charges is optional in the restaurants here. Moreover, the restaurants I visited also did not tell me that we have the option of removing the amount from the bill, so I ended up paying it."

> We haven't received any complaints from consumers – Siddharth K, manager, resto bar

Some of the customers also say that while they have noticed the service charge in their bills, they still did not say anything about it because the amount was minimal.

Aastha Gorle, a customer at a pub in Church Street said, "I noticed that the service charge was added to my bill. However, I did not decide to say anything about it because even if we removed that amount, the total would not have made much difference. In fact, I have noticed service charge being added in not just one but quite a lot of places, but the amount is minimal. But if I see that the amount charged as service charge is a big chunk, I would definitely opt out from paying that."

Sharmistha Dey, a resident of Indiranagar, added that she too ignores the service charges because 'I feel that during covid, these restaurants had suffered a lot, especially the waiters'. "Even if I did not pay the service charge, I would have anyway used the money to tip the waiter," she added.

Restaurants say that if the customers ask them to remove the service charge, they do so.

Siddharth K, managing a resto bar on MG Road, said, "We charge a service charge, but it is completely voluntary. We have not received any complaints from customers regarding imposing a service charge. However, if the customer refuses to pay the service charge, then we will agree to that."

Nelamangala: Bengaluru's new satellite town

Masterplan being drawn to develop Nelamangala, Doddaballapur, Devanahalli

Nelamangala, Doddaballapur, and Devanahalli are set to become satellite towns of Bengaluru soon. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said, "The works on new townships for Kolar and Chikkaballapur have already started, and we have now taken a decision to develop Nelamangala, Doddaballapur, and Devanahalli as satellite towns. The future of Bengaluru is in these three places, and they will be developed as mega cities by providing all facilities. A master plan will be drawn for the overall development of these three towns."

Reaching Nelamangala has become easier due to the construction of Nelamangala expressway. This six-lane access-controlled road, along with a four-lane toll free service road has made travel between the region and other parts of the city smoother. As a result, many people are shifting there and to its suburbs like Sondekoppa Road so that they can easily shift back to the city for work.

The metro network is an added advantage. Currently, the network ends at Nagasandra, but phase two of the line is being extended to BIEC. There are proposals to extend the line beyond BIE, which means that people staying in and around Nelamangala can travel to BIEC to board a metro that connects different parts of the city.

Additionally, Nelamangala is blessed with multiple connecting roads like the Hassan Road, Tumakuru Road, airport Road (via Madhure), and NICE road. Many people staying in the heart of Bengaluru are relocating there to settle in comfortable houses, away from the city traffic. There are a number of industries located in and around the area too, making way for an employment boom. -Prakash VL

Highest office space transactions in city

Knight Frank India launched a report (India Real Estate Update: July-September, 2022) on Friday which noted that in Q3-2022, Bengaluru, the largest office market in the country, accounted for 45 per cent of the total space occupied across eight Indian cities. Bengaluru led with 7.3 mn sq ft, registering a growth of 71 per cent year-on-year in its office space transactions. With 4.9 mn sq ft of new office completions, the city accounted for 37 per cent of the total space delivered across eight leading markets during the quarter.

The office market witnessed maximum increase in their rental value at 13 per cent due to a higher demand momentum. Co-working players were particularly active in Bengaluru as the city accounted for a substantial 52 per cent of the total space transacted by the sector.

Bengaluru recorded second highest residential sales in the country after Mumbai. The city witnessed sales of 13,013 homes, which translated to 15 per cent year-on-year growth during Q3 2022. Residential launches also remained robust with 11,250 units getting added to the market, registering a growth of 28 per cent year-on-year during Q3 2022. At 10 per cent year-on-year, residential prices in the city recorded the highest growth across eight leading Indian cities. —BMB

Estate Planning: Do You Need It?

Vibha Singh
mybangaloremirror
@timesgroup.com
TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

In simple terms, estate planning refers to the passing of assets from one generation to another. Estate planning isn't just for the affluent class, retired individuals, or senior citizens. Jitendra Shah, MD and CEO of a real estate development company in Mumbai, explains, "Estate planning is a process that involves identifying the title holder of your assets in case of your disability or death. It also caters to the future needs of your dear ones. In current times, it's the type of planning one needs. Its key element is designating heirs for your possessions."

How Does It Help?

On the benefits of estate planning, Anuj Puri, chairman of a real estate services company and property consultancy, opines, "The advantage is that it prevents disputes within the family if an explicit and rational distribution is done. One can also make provisions for minors and children with special needs and disinherit relatives who may be troublemakers. It also helps address the transfer of offshore assets."

There is a misconception that registered nominees are beneficiaries of assets in the future. According to law, the beneficiary is the legal heir as stated in the will. In the absence of a will, the transmission of assets happens as per succession laws of the country. A nominee is just the trustee of your assets.

Minimise Taxes

Statutory changes have also necessitated the significance of succession planning. Currently, there is no concept of inheritance tax and estate duty in India; however, there is a demand for re-introducing these concepts. Thus, estate planning can help avoid legal hassles.

Neha Pathak, head of trust and estate planning of a private wealth management company, says, "If a person dies without drafting the estate plan, the family of the deceased may have to spend a lot of time, effort and money. Also, the court proceedings could last for a long time if the estate is contested. If you name responsible people as account beneficiaries (meaning people with no debts or disabilities), it could be a great way to avoid probate and its associated legal costs."

How Is It Done?

Once you have identified your requirement, you can go ahead and create an estate plan. It can be done in multiple ways. It can broadly be classified into three modes which include wills, use of trust structure, and family constitution. Talking about the different means of estate planning, Vishal Yeole, vice president (family advisory) of a wealth management company, says, "In our experience, families have utilised either one or a combination of these modes to design their succession plans. The key is to conceptualise the structure with all agreed family principles. Typically, most families opt for a trust structure as it facilitates family succession and potentially shields it from estate duty implications. A trust structure helps ring-fence family assets from possible claims arising in future in relation to business and events such as divorce."

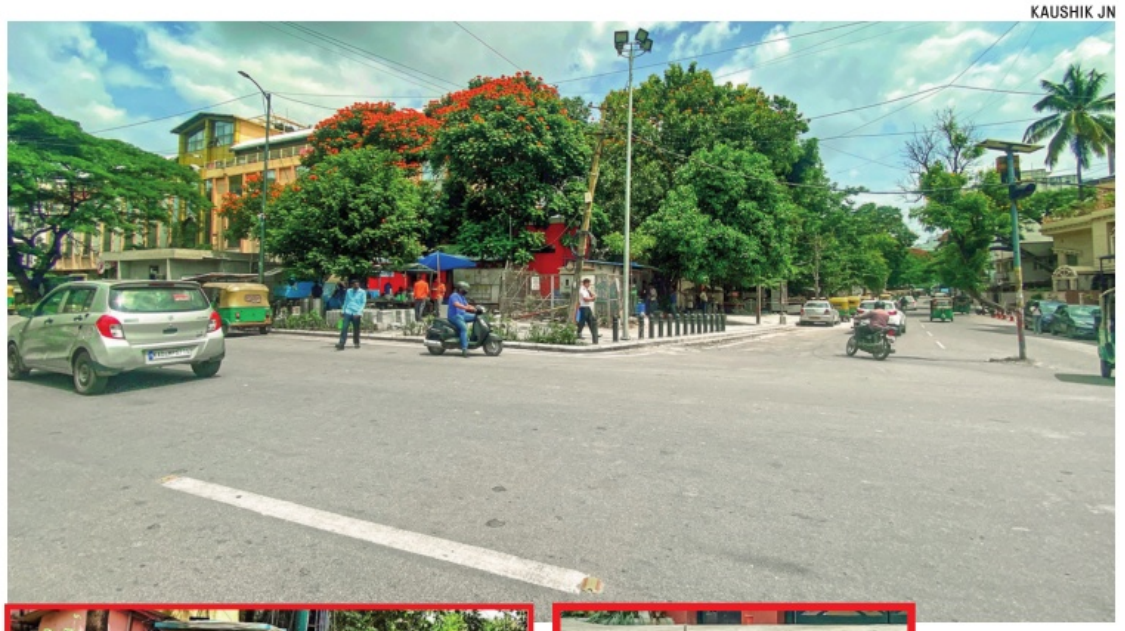
Smart city, bad planning

Dents on the road, poorly managed walkways, unfinished median with steel rods sticking out – this is Millers Road's state after Smart City's revamp work

Garima Prasher
c-garima.prasher
@timesgroup.com

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

KAUSHIK JN



People said there is very little space for them to walk on footpaths; they also said they reported their issues to Smart City officials, but in vain

The road work taken up by Bengaluru Smart City Ltd (BSCL) on Millers Road is moving slower than a snail's pace. While no work has happened for the past six months, residents say that they are exhausted from knocking on every door with a long list of issues.

Multiple road dips, poorly managed pedestrian walkways, unfinished median with steel rods sticking out, multiple potholes, and lack of safety measures are only some of the issues plaguing the newly laid out stretch. "The asphalting of the road was done a few months ago, but it has already developed potholes. The road is dug up in multiple places by various agencies, only to be filled in and left untarred. For instance, a big area on the stretch was dug by BWSSB for pipe laying work a few months ago. It has not been asphalted yet," said Susan P, a resident of the area.

Locals say that while no work is happening on the road for over six months now, issues are aplenty.

"A BESCOM transformer was installed near High Grounds L&O Police Station by the BSCL workers, totally compromising walkability. We reached out to the officials on multiple occasions, but there have only been assurances. There is no place for pedestrians to walk on the footpath. Moreover, the small gap between the transformer and the compound wall of police quarters has become a place of public nuisance. We had suggested extending the footpath area by including the adjacent car parking, but no action has been taken yet," said another resident of the area.

> "The asphalting of the road was done a few months ago, but it has already developed potholes. The road is dug up in multiple places
> -Susan P, resident

Locals say that the project is smart only in name, and there has been a total lack of planning.

Before Smart City took over the stretch a couple of years ago, there used to be a flat, raised pedestrian crossing near Jain Hospital for walkers to cross the busy road safely.

"The crossing was removed by Smart City with a promise that it would be restored as soon as the road was done being asphalted. However, it has not happened to date. The road experiences heavy traffic coming in from the High Grounds Police Station junction. The vehicles also pick up speed as the stretch has a downward slope. No pedestrian crossing on such roads is akin to waiting for a disaster to happen. It is even more difficult for the elderly to cross the stretch," said another resident.

Locals allege that while these issues have been brought up with Smart City officials multiple times, nothing has changed. "Officials must realise that we are their eyes on the ground and they just need to listen to us and take corrective measures. However, our feedback is perceived as criticism," added Susan.

New year, new demolition roadblock

BBMP workers carrying out a demolition drive in Munnekollal

The demolition drive has hit a roadblock once again after razing multiple buildings succeeding the recent deluge. So far, 104 encroachments have been removed since August 30, with most of the action taking place in Mahadevapura zone (52). This was followed by Bommanahalli (20), Dasara (13), Yelahanka (12), RR Nagar (four), and the west zone (three). No demolitions were carried out in both the east zone and the Koramangala valley.

Data show that 2,631 encroachments were identified in the city, with the maximum being at Mahadevapura (1,150). The first D-drive was taken up when Siddaramaiah was the Chief Minister in 2016-17. The drive was halted after razing 426 buildings. This had drawn a lot of backlash from the public as it was alleged that the drive halted when it came to taking action against big names.

The second round of demolitions was in 2018-19 when 1,502 encroachments were removed, and for the next three years, there was no D-drive. However, the August rainfall of this year has once again made the government realise the importance of removing encroachments as blocked rajakaluves are obstructing smooth flow of water. Many low-lying areas were submerged for days. Now, out of 2,631 encroachments, BBMP is yet to remove 597. The maximum encroachments still exist in Mahadevapura (133), followed by Dasarahalli (113), east zone (110), Yelahanka (84), Bommanahalli (72), west zone (57), RR Nagar (five), and Koramangala valley (three).

Officials said that during the recent rainfall, there was widespread damage in the city. More than 136 apartment complexes and several tech parks were submerged in water. 396 km of roads have been damaged (BBMP estimate of damages: Rs 336.63 crore range). The loss is said to be much more as many individual houses have not been accounted for.

Shiva Kumar, a resident of Mahadevapura, said, "CM Bommai toured the rain hit areas and asked officials to take stern action. However, this is the third time the state government has failed after 2016-17 and 2018-19. In many of the places where BBMP claims that encroachments are removed, only a few slabs on the drains were removed." There are allegations that there is pressure from politicians to slow down the demolition drive, especially when the BBMP elections are around the corner. Experts are saying that the civic agency should focus on removing all the encroachments present on the rajakaluves. There are 633 rajakaluves in the city, with a total length of 859.90 km. Out of this, 490.10 km are yet to be secured. Within BBMP limits, 2,631 encroachments on rajakaluves have been identified and 2,034 have been removed.

Birds and blinding lights

The other day, BM published a story 'Twilight Zone' about how the largely nocturnal owls, nightjars, and even diurnal birds that roost in massive trees are disturbed by the blinding glare of city lights — their already fragile habitat, behaviour and life itself, caught in the blur of human activity, as dusk sets in each day.

The overwhelming glow is waylaying migrating avians too that pass over Bengaluru, disorienting them mid-way, en route to distant breeding or wintering grounds.

I have glanced upon migrating flocks myself, often past midnight. In the afterglow, one can vaguely count the birds, over a dozen or two at most, advancing in a rough V shape high up in a dreamy night sky, just their outlines and flying pattern visible.

Soon after BM's report on blinding lights came the once-in-five-years State of the World's Birds report of BirdLife International. The damning study revealed 49% of the planet's birds are on decline. The most absurd thing, I thought, is why humans aren't yet. What a travesty that we are still charting plans to further exploit nature on an industrial scale (read Big Oil).

BirdLife International's report highlighted the lesser florican endemic to India's grasslands, a bird once widely found throughout the subcontinent; now less than a 1,000 individuals remain due to a 90% decline in the past 20 years, its habitat lost and chicks preyed upon by dogs, the Guardian cited the report.

This monumental apathy towards human tampering of nature's evolutionary trajectory and humanity's future prospects, is the single most critical challenge we are facing, millions of species that we have shortchanged already and plan to shortchange notwithstanding. This blunder of massive proportions is perpetuated by dummy politicians for the few ultra-rich conglomerates whose fortunes are quadrupling by the hour in this new normal where environment is just another 'vertical' to be monopolised, and not a public common; the Amazon for instance.

Greedy corporations blatantly flout all regulatory norms, and so, they need politicians who help them do it or shall ensure such politicians remain in power. This is evident in the tremendous push of the far right even amongst centrist parties worldwide — be it in the floundering economic stance of Liz Truss and her chancellor Kwasi Kwarteng, the new leader of Italy, the shift in Sweden or in the much anticipated showdown between the left's beacon Lula da Silva and Jair Bolsonaro in Brazil, in 'a battle to reclaim the soul of Brazil', as many say.

If a key report says almost 50% of birds — a success story of nature that took to the wing and soared over the great evolutionary possibility — are rendered to half their number due to activities of a relatively new entity on the scene, with a large 'anomaly' for a brain, something's amiss.

There are multiple ways to approach this existential dilemma of human endeavour. One could argue that the dance of nature and evolution is beyond our imagination and plays out in an incomprehensible arena that is indecipherable to us. However, one cannot overlook the tweaks to evolution perpetuated by homo sapiens that are overwhelming their not so well off brethren in the frontlines of the climate emergency, and other mounting societal crises.

The slow and gradual appropriation of liberal values by the conservatives now undergoing an identity crisis makes the fight to salvage humanity's future tougher, not to mention a weakened liberal establishment and future prospects of other life forms as aforementioned at stake.

Of course, there are those caught in between, unable to make sense of this grand drama unfolding. Rishi Sunak, for instance, who failed in his bid to be the British prime minister to Liz Truss once vowed to end 'the woke nonsense' as the race to conservative leadership heated up.

So, what was the 'woke nonsense' Sunak was talking about? Was it that 'woke' idea which allowed many Indians and south Asians to flourish and make a life in the United Kingdom, despite being relatively well off? Perhaps not.

Was he talking about woke youths demanding climate justice, gender justice, those unable to find employment in the midst of rising income inequality and those now reportedly falling back on traditional methods of heating their homes using charcoal and wood fire in the UK as winter nears? Maybe not.

Likewise, if those pointing fingers at gross environmental inequities in India, meanwhile spreading awareness amongst citizens about the basic human right to environment, that which is already under so much pressure due to corporate violations, are thoughtlessly branded 'urban naxals', one is lost for words.

It's not just the climate emergency the world is confronting. It is an environmental crisis of unfathomable scale where humanity's blinkered vision shall wreck generations. A recent report said over 1,700 environmental activists were murdered in the past decade in what is 'a conservative estimate'.

Why Doddanekundi is missing the bus

BMTC bus drivers not stopping at Doddanekundi bus stop, allege residents of area

The Doddanekundi bus stop (inset)

The wait for a bus for residents of Doddanekundi seems to be never-ending. Recently, many locals voiced complaints against (Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation) BMTC bus drivers, saying that they do not stop at the Doddanekundi cross bus stop even though it is a designated bus stop along the route.

"Many buses, including bus numbers 333, 334, 331, 330A and other buses coming from the market, do not stop at the station. There are almost 35,000 people in the area who depend on the bus and public transport for their daily commute. Many of them are from lower economical sections who do not have any other mode. It is really unfair to them," said Indira Belde, one of the residents.

PUSH FOR PUBLIC TRANSPORT

Locals told Bangalore Mirror that when they confronted the drivers about the issue, they were told that the traffic wardens on duty ask for a Rs.1,000 penalty when they stop the bus in that particular area.

"The residents have been complaining for a long time and are going to get mass signatures against the bus drivers," Belde added.

Traffic police authorities denied the claim made by the bus drivers.

"We are not penalising any drivers within our limits. The routes cannot be decided by traffic police or any other government agency as we have no authority over them. The BMTC decides the routes and all the designated bus stops. If there is a bus stop and the passengers are waiting, the drivers are supposed to stop there daily," an official from HAL Traffic Police Station said.

Traffic police suggested that residents take the matter to BMTC officials in the future if the drivers make any such claims without proof. When Bangalore Mirror tried to reach out to BMTC officials, they were unavailable for comment.

However, buses not stopping at selected bus stops is not an uncommon scenario in Bengaluru. Residents from other areas have also faced similar issues with BMTC buses.

"Sometimes, some buses that have vacant seats do not stop at several stations. It is frustrating to wait for the buses that do not stop, especially when I am in a hurry or getting late. I travel regularly by BMTC and find it very convenient too, but I do not understand why they do that at times. In other places, they stop where there is no stop," said Vinay Kumar, a commuter.

No city for women sans CCTV?

of crimes recorded against women — 3,127 out of the total 43,414 cases in 2021.

Deputy commissioner of police (administration) Nisha James told Bangalore Mirror that the implementation of the project is under process; however, did not give much information regarding when the project is expected to be completed.

Women BM spoke to said they felt safer in the presence of cameras.

"I used to live in Kengeri; last year, I felt really unsafe at times while going out after dark. I think if there are cameras, many of the eve-teasings and groping cases will come to light. Women often hesitate to report such cases; they occur just like that, go unrecorded," said Kanupriya V (23).

Even women living in prime locations of the city have witnessed such violations.

Rakshita Kumar, 22, said, "A few weeks ago, I was walking near my residence in JP Nagar; around 9:30 pm, a man who was on a bike catcalled me. The area has many shops and houses; there were a lot of people present but no one called him out. CCTV cameras will help bring such cases to the authorities' notice."

Even in high-traffic areas of the city like Outer Ring Road and HSR Layout, the cameras have not been installed yet.

Mahesh Veerappa, a resident of Indiranagar, told Bangalore Mirror that no CCTV cameras have been installed in his area.

Veerappa lost his son in a road accident on the Outer Ring Road (ORR) in Banaswadi a month ago. He demanded the authorities for a CCTV review of the accident, however, he discovered that no CCTV cameras had been installed at the site of the accident.

"If the project is implemented and linked to the traffic management centre, traffic violations can be controlled which would help department personnel to do their duty more effectively. Many lives can be saved," Veerappa said.

The sites selected for the project are mainly critical traffic junctions, markets, deserted roads, and around educational institutions, offices, and transport hubs. Apart from CCTV cameras, the project also includes installing viewing centres at individual police stations and DCP offices, providing 10 surveillance drones and 560 body-worn cameras for use when needed, and applications like Facial Recognition System (FRS) and Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR).

In October 2021, Honeywell Automation India, a US-headquartered MNC was selected as the service provider for the project in Bengaluru, and Rs 496.57 crore was allocated for the same.

Mysuru tourist circuit to be functional in two months

Route to have tourist attractions in and around Mysuru, along with Belur, Halebid, Somanathapura

Karnataka has numerous tourist attractions, and Mysuru is one of the top tourist places in the state. Realising its importance, the tourism department has announced a new Mysuru circuit.

The tourists visiting Mysuru will not only get a chance to visit places in and around Mysuru but also can head to neighbouring districts like Belur, Halebid, Somanathapura and surrounding areas.

Recently, the tourism department unveiled two circuits. The other circuit is Hampi which also includes Chalukyan monuments in Badami and Pattadakal. The plan is being readied to take these two circuits to an international level. These two circuits are likely to be functional in the next two months.

An official said, "We have set a target that Karnataka should attract at least one crore people in the next three years from the current 30 lakh tourists. More foreign tourists must be attracted to give jobs to locals. Karnataka has the best tourist places which are should be promoted.."

There are also efforts to construct a 4D studio and other measures at lesser-known places. For example, Saint Kanakadasa was born in Shiggaon taluk and it was also the 'karma bhumi' of Saint Shishunala Sharif but these places are not developed. The excavation by the Department of Archeology discovered a small palace. Thousands of people from other states visit these places every year, according to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai. There are plans for the revival of Yaana, ropeway in Chikkamagaluru and the construction of hotels have been taken up as well.

Meanwhile, the state government has submitted a concept proposal for the development of Chamundeshwari Devi Temple in Mysuru under the Pilgrimage Rejuvenation and Spiritual, Heritage, Augmentation Drive (PRASHAD) scheme. The government has set the target to submit the Detailed Project Report (DPR) for further approval of the project under the scheme.

"The Ministry of Tourism under its ongoing PRASHAD scheme also sanctions projects in the country for the development of tourism infrastructure with the objective of integrated development of identified pilgrimage and heritage destinations. The scheme focuses on developing and identifying pilgrimage sites across India for enriching the religious tourism experience. It aims to integrate pilgrimage destinations in a prioritised, planned and sustainable manner to provide a complete religious tourism experience. The growth of domestic tourism hugely depends on pilgrimage tourism," said an official.

Ticket examiner has the answer

Railways equips TTEs with handheld terminals to guide passengers better on ticket queries

Sridhar.Vivan@timesgroup.com
TWEETS @sridharvMirror

If your ticket is yet to be confirmed even after the chart is prepared, then you can now head to a Train Ticket Examiner (TTE) as he is now equipped with handheld terminals (HHT) to guide the passengers better.

Many trains originating from Bengaluru now have the facility of HHTs. Railways said that the HHTs are being provided to the TTE so that the officials are able to check the reserved coaches, allot vacant berths and transmit information on available berths to the subsequent stations.

The HHT can also access the ticketing application and collect excess fares as per rules.

The terminal can potentially connect to a Point of Sale (POS) machine and charges can be collected digitally.

Explaining the process, Aneesh Hegde, Chief PRO, South Western Railways said, "With effect from July 16, this year, HHT has been introduced as a pilot basis at two important trains; Lalbagh Express and Yesvantpur-Howrah Duronto Express."

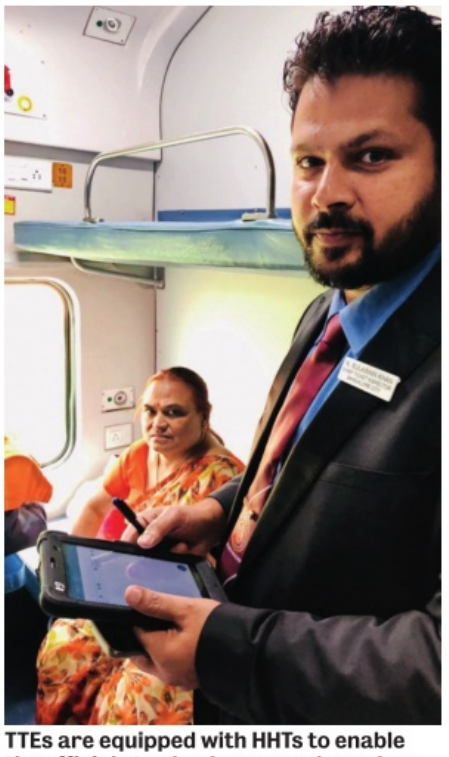
"The usage of HHTs began in the premium train service like Shatabdi Express also. With effect from August 1 this year, HHTs have been introduced in 16 (eight pairs) major trains across SWR. This was extended to 30 major trains (15 pairs) from August 8. From September 5, this service was extended to eight premium trains (four pairs) and 22 trains (11 pairs) as well. Now, there are plans to extend it to another 52 (26 pairs) major trains and 12 premium trains in the near future," Hegde added.

HHTs are greatly beneficial as it shows seat availability on a real-time basis to TTE thereby bringing transparent allotment of vacant berths on board. This will greatly benefit the waitlisted passengers and eliminates the need for TTE to carry bunches of printed paper charts, Hegde added.

How does this process work?

According to PIB, "With the help of HHTs, after allotments, remaining vacant berths will be sent back to HHT. Application Servers can be viewed on the PRS terminal as well as on the website (indianrail.gov.in) and information of all NT passengers will be sent to the coaching refund system to get a speedier refund and eliminate the preparation of manual Exception Data Reports (EDR)."

"The occupancy chart can be viewed on the HHT device to dispense with the manual preparation of the food chart/occupancy chart. The biggest spinoffs of the project are revenue yield maximization by making onboard accommodation availability visible to downstream stations so that they can do current bookings against these vacant seats, realising additional revenue against the same as presently these seats usually go vacant up to the terminal stations due to non-availability of this information with the prospective passengers. The application ensures greater transparency in the allotment of accommodation and it will ensure better productivity norms amongst TTEs as the process of ticket checking will get simplified considerably,"the PIB added.



TTEs are equipped with HHTs to enable the officials to check reserved coaches, and allot vacant berths

"LHB coaches are the passenger coaches of Indian Railways that were developed by Linke-Hofmann-Busch of Germany and now produced by Rail Coach Factory in Kapurthala
– Aneesh Hegde, South Western Railways

LHB coaches

Meanwhile, a few more trains will get modern LHB (Linke Hofmann Busch) coaches. Railways said that Mysuru-Tuticorin, Mysore-Mayiladuthurai and LTT-Coimbatore trains will be fitted with LHB coaches. "LHB coaches are the passenger coaches of Indian Railways that were developed by Linke-Hofmann-Busch of Germany and now produced by Rail Coach Factory in Kapurthala (Punjab). These coaches are lighter and safer compared to the older type of coaches. They are anti - telescopic which means when a collision occurs, coaches will not climb/turn over. Lastly, the interiors have a modular and more aesthetic design," Hegde added.

BBMP polls: Conduct by Dec 31, says HC

Rejecting the plea of the BJP government to provide 16 weeks to rectify and finalise the list of reservation of wards in Bengaluru, the High Court on Friday asked the government to complete the election process for the civic bodies by December 31.The Karnataka High Court also cancelled the government's notification for the reservation of wards of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP).The court stated that the decision was being made as the reservation for women and OBCs has been done randomly. The court also stated that since the reservation was made as per the population of the Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes, there will be no changes in that list.

The court has directed the government to issue notification on the reservation by completing the due process by November 30. — IANS

The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.

Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) – Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)
